COLLYER, June 29, 1887.

Vacation.
Two dances.
Fireworks appear.
Gathering the rye.
Base ball practice.
Sunday's warm breeze.
Cultivators are kept in use.
School entertainment highly enjoyed.
Mr. Behm returned to Chicago to-day.

An enjoyable time is anticipated for the Fourth at Collyer.

Ed. Power, eldest son of James Power, is visiting at home after a long absence.

The W. R. C. and the hotel proprietor will each give a dance the evening of the Fourth.

Rev. Weller's sermon Sunday morning, from the text, "Let us alone,"—Ex. 14:12, was listened to with much interest.

C. W. Jordan, the gentlemanly agent of the Adams Manufacturing Company, of Marcellus, Ill., was in town Monday.

Rev. Weller will not fill his next appointment at Collyer, as he intends to take a vacation, and visit his family, at Lawrence.

Justice O. T. Birkeland comes to the front with new potatoes in one month and fourteen days from time of planting. Who has done better?

Mrs. R. G. Kessler has recently made a sale of some valuable property in California, and intends investing some of the proceeds in fencing their range land.

Lony Smith, youngest child of Mrs. M. J. Smith, was the only competitor for the Bible prize last Sunday, and won it by his repetition of the ten commandments.

Andrew Pavlica, one of our industrious Bohemian residents, has sent to his mother and sister the where-with-all which will enable them to leave their native land and come to America.

Mention is cheerfully made of the receipt of some beautiful blossoms of white oxalis, the gift of Miss Mina York, from a choice plant recently brought from Chicago.

The roadmaster is on the alert, and will soon make an effort to have the section-line roads opened for travel, as also to have the railroad company make more crossings over their track.

Mr. Brown, of Wa-Keeney, is now our depot agent. He is a brother of J. L. Brown, of the Pioneer Clothing Company, of Wa-Keeney, and his family is in Iowa. Mr. Brown took charge of the "key" Monday morning.

A larger acreage of corn is being raised by the old settlers than ever before, and this, added to the amount being cultivated by the recent arrivals, will greatly increase the corn yield of western Kansas, if the season continues favorable.

Mr. Kuhns, who recently was made railroad agent here, resigned his position because unacquainted with the company's system of work. He and his family began their journey yesterday to their former home, in Indiana, where they own a farm.

Go to G. W. Blackwill's, Collyer, Kan., for your Acme Pulverizer and Harrow, the greatest harrow for listed corn on the market. Also see the patent-tooth Ellinwood Harrow and Adams Cultivator, and do not fail to examine the new Deering Mower. Prices way down. 430-4t

Among the visitors at the school entertainment Friday evening were Miss M. Knight, of Denver; Misses Miller and Purinton, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brown and Mr. Wilson, all of Banner; Mr. and Miss Behm—niece and nephew of H. Linde—of Chicago, and Misses J. and R. Welch, of Wa-Keeney.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hay and little son bid good-bye to Collyer friends and start for the East this week, making a short visit at Wilson, and then continuing their journey eastward. Mrs. Hay and child will visit her mother, at Sidney, Ill., while Mr. Hay remains in this state. With them go the best wishes of the numerous friends they have made during their short residence in Collyer. Edward Lehman, Mrs. Hay's brother, returned home last Wednesday.

The cloudy weather of the past few days has been very acceptable, and a great benefit to all kinds of vegetation, and especially the corn. On account of the heat which prevailed last week and on Sunday, fears were entertained that the corn would be injured, but the cool, cloudy weather since has prevented any serious damage. The gentle rain of Thursday night and mist Saturday morning aided materially the growth of crops, while the gentle breaking of the storm is added testimony to the truth that western Kansas has received a beneficial climatic change.

Another change was made Sunday morning in the official staff of the Sunday school. This time Miss L. Teague resigned the office of assistant superintendent, to which she had been elected the week previous, as her duties as organist and teacher were all she could well perform. Feeling the justice of her reasons, the school accepted her resignation, and unanimously elected Miss M. Knight, daughter of H. F. Knight, of Big Creek, to fill the vacancy. Miss Knight has recently come from Denver, where she is completing her education, and brings fresh enthusiasm to the work.

The following is a list of the gifts presented to Mr. and Mrs. P. Gubbins, of Big creek, at their twentieth wedding anniversary, June 16, 1887: Set of glass-ware, Messrs. Finley and Mills; white bedspread, Mrs. D. Webster; decorated china plates, Miss M. Brown; majolica tea plates, W. Siebert and W. Bowers; syrup pitcher and vegetable dish, T. Smith and W. Bruner; covered glass dish, Mrs. Joseph Brown; decorated China plates, two cups and saucers and syrup pitcher, M. Goodwin and C. Bamberg; sauce dishes, Mr. Minehart; box of cigars, M. Ryan and Mr. McMillan; decorated China pipe, L. LeBron; pair of towels, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons; receptacle filled with tobacco and pipes, from (?) M. Goodwin, W. Bowers and C. Bamberg; easy chair, from friends and old settlers—Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. LeBron, Mrs. G. Kessler, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Siebert, Mrs. Birkeland, Mrs. Hay, Mrs. J. Conner, Mrs. J. Martin, Mrs. R. Kessler, Mrs. Spicer and Mrs. Robb. The pleasant evening which was spent, and the thoroughness of the surprise, are not so easily delineated, but they form a bright spot in memory, among the necessarily many sombre ones of pioneer life. Among the invited guests who enjoyed the evening's pleasures were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Philippi, Mr. John and Miss Lida Norton.

A very large audience attended the closing exercises of Collyer school, in fact not only the seating capacity of the room was occupied, but nearly all the standing space as well. But few changes were made from the program as published last week. The execution of the entire program was good, and did great credit to Miss V. Welch, as teacher, and Miss L. Teague, who gave valuable assistance in preparing the musical portion of the evening's entertainment. It would be impossible to mention all the pleasant things, but we noticed that the acting of some of the little folks, as they retired after their first efforts on the stage, created considerable mirth. "The Pilot's Story," by Miss Ruth Welch, was exceedingly well rendered, as was also, "The Smack at the Gate," by Nellie and Freddie Teague. The dialogue, "Graduating Class," "Days of the Week," "Little Boys' Rights" and "Irish Servant," were well given and showed what interest the scholars had taken in the work of preparation. "Old Letters," as expressively recited by Miss Bessie Siebert, recalled many similar stories of deeper personal interest. "I'm a Little Dutchman," given by Christine Ehrlich, pleased the audience greatly. The possession of a good memory and a well-trained voice was evinced in the delivery of "Kentucky Belle" and "The Bald-Headed Man" by Grace Welch, and they received well deserved applause. A great and favorable change has been noticed in school affairs during the two months Miss V. Welch has been teacher, and the desire of the parents, as expressed to your correspondent, is that her services may be secured for next year. Her aid has also been generously given to other objects, and her influence over the young, both in and out of school, has been for good.

OGALLAH, KAN., June 29, 1887.

Harvest.
Some corn laid by.
Warm winds from the south.
Mr. Rich's new barn shows up in good shape.
Mr. Tawny is the handy carpenter of Ogallah.
Joseph Marquand is at work in the Ogallah store.
Blossoms are at last seen on the vines of different kinds.

Rev. Knapp preached an able sermon at the school house last Sunday.

Mr. Knapp has his cellar walled and has commenced work on his house.

Quite a number of persons from Big creek came up to preaching last Sunday.

Mr. McBride has had a well drilled, just off the bank of Big creek, on his land.

Last Sunday afternoon the smoke of a distant prairie fire was seen in the south-west.

Judging from the handbills, Ellis is going to celebrate in a regular old-fashioned way.

Aquila Marquand went to Hays last Tuesday for the purpose of getting a new binder chain.

Some of the farmers of this neighborhood are giving their corn the last plowing for this season.

Mr. S. R. McBride has been granted a pension. Last Saturday he received a back pension of $838.33.

Miles Knapp has started a lumber yard in town. This is something we have been in need of for a long time.

Harvest time has once more arrived. Several parties began last week, and others are beginning this week.

Some of the farmers are complaining at the great numbers of chinch bugs there are in their oats and corn.

Will the law of Kansas make a man give a road on four sides of a section, and then allow people to make roads across a man's land?

Mr. Hull has had a glass front put in his hotel. He has also had the dining room papered. This adds greatly to the appearance of his house.

C. J. Eklund says there is no use to talk to him against advertising, for his hogs are going lively since he advertised them for sale in the World.

Some varments frequent the chicken houses of this vicinity. These are supposed to be four-legged animals, from the number of egg shells they leave in the nests.

Mr. James Harvey, of Big Creek, starts for Nebraska this week. He says he is going to stay. Although it makes one bachelor less about Ogallah, we regret his loss.

A Quaker missionary was on Big creek last week. The old gentleman and his wife formerly lived in Graham county, but have lately sold out and have started as Quaker missionaries.

Mr. Ridgway has lost four work horses. He now has one left. The supposition is that they were poisoned, but no one knows how. It is supposed by some that bad water might have been the cause.

Mrs. W. S. Knapp started to Michigan last week to visit her parents and friends. Mrs. Knapp will remain there some two months, more or less. May she enjoy herself, and return to her home with her health fully restored, is our wish.

Rev. Knapp's text for last Sunday can be found in 2nd Timothy, 2nd chapter and 15th verse: "Study". He will preach again next Sunday, and invites every one to come, and bring a pencil and blank paper along to take notes.

Sickness has invaded the family of C. C. Ridgway. Both Mr. Ridgway and his oldest son, Frances, are bedfast. Mr. Ridgway himself is very ill, and there has to be some one with him day and night. Dr. Kidd, of Ellis, is waiting on him.

County Clerk Hoar was down on Sunday, and was gladly received by his Ogallah friends. The reporter failed of an opportunity to congratulate him on his good fortune, and now, with his many friends in and around Ogallah, we do so by wishing long life and prosperity to his son.

One day last week a Chinaman passed through our town, begging his way. Some of our people took pity on him and gave him some money. He left town with a man who was going his way in a wagon. When he got out he offered the man a drink from his bottle. He did not drink. Will we help another tramp?

Prof. Halleck, of Ellis, was in our town last week, as a book agent. He is representing four different books, all of which are both interesting and beneficial. The professor is a smart man, and has chosen good books. He says he can work half his time and lie around the other half, and then beat school teaching to death.

The young man spoken of in the last issue of the World was cleaning a Smith & Wesson revolver, and when throwing it back to gather one of the shells, struck the hammer and lodged the ball just above the knee. Although this make of revolvers is counted the best, there surely can not be a more dangerous kind made, owing to the way they break in two in the center.

A. E. McK.

CASTLE ROCK RIPPLES.

BANNER, June 29, 1887.

Hot.
Some corn "laid by."
Mrs. C. F. Hawkes has been ill for nearly a week.

Mr. Hitlock lost three cows last week by green corn.

The mumps are causing trouble at T. H. Courtney's and Sam. Bingaman's.

T. E. Trigg, the lively agent of the Cadwalader nurseries, is revisiting Banner.

Listed corn is a little behind that put in with a planter, but "the end is not yet."

A nice rain Thursday night over a very limited territory. A general rain is needed.

The Banner school closed on Friday last, after a very successful term of three months.

A cow belonging to the McKay boys broke her neck a few days ago while on the picket rope.

Miss Viola Welch, with her sister Grace, spent Sunday, the 19, with their Banner friends.

Several of the Banner young people attended the closing exercises of the Collyer school Friday evening.

The first case of "black-leg" this season occurred a few days ago, A. W. Purinton losing a nice yearling heifer by the disease.

A nice yearling colt, belonging to T. H. Courtney, broke its leg on Sunday; how, it is not known. Mr. Courtney hopes to save the colt.

Nelson Lund, who is boring a well for Will Kough, reached the end of his rope at a depth of 325 feet. No good water has been found, and he will proceed with the boring as soon as more rope can be procured.

PERSONAL.

G. A. Wilson, who has been spending several months with his uncle, J. C. Brown, will, in a few days, return to Illinois for a visit. His departure will be much regretted by the Banner people.

Mr. Wilson, besides being the Superintendent of our Sunday school, has, without any remuneration whatever, conducted a singing school twice a week. This has been greatly enjoyed by our young people, and they have profited much by it.

It was, therefore, with sincere regret that they bade him farewell at the singing school Monday night, and the vote of thanks, heartily given, was but a slight acknowledgment of their gratitude for his kindness, and the trouble which he has taken. However, we hope and expect to see him back again before the close of the summer.

WILD HORSE NEIGHINGS.

WILD HORSE, NEAR SW COR. OF CO. June 29, 1887.

The exceedingly hot weather keeps everybody in the shade.
The corn looks as though it would like a little shade also.

We would like to know what that male team is anchored at Uncle Thomas's so often for.

Mr. Charles Lange starts in a few days for Boston, the so-called Hub of the Universe.

Billy Willson intends starting for Kentucky in a few days. Billy thinks blue grass is better than buffalo grass.

Mr. Beatty finished planting corn last Saturday. He says any one who hasn't his corn planted now is awfully lazy.

Some of the old maids along the Wild Horse are making improvements in the way of barns, remodeling houses, cleaning wells, etc.

Byron Wylie started for the East last Monday. His brother accompanied him as far as Great Bend, where he intends stopping a few weeks.

Mr. Thomas Fields lost one of his horses last week. Bad luck seems to predominate along the Wild Horse, as only a few weeks ago Mr. A. B. Baker, Mr. Willmath and D. Wylie each lost a horse.

We would be well pleased to know what that buggy was doing at the little sod shanty, near Mr. Beatty's a week ago last Sunday, and occasionally a pony is found tied to the well rope at the same place.
